

The Gift of A Blank Canvas

a powerful reminder inspiring possibilities

Would you like to live a life that is ...

Free from your past hurts, as if they never had happened,
Unrestrained by your fears, like in your dreams, and
Able to be or do anything you want, like you felt growing up?

You Can with a Fresh Start Today!

As an artist prepares to paint, he or she starts with a blank canvas... and an inspiration. Before putting on any paint, everything is possible; the artist can create his heart's desire. The blank canvas offers him a fresh start = the freedom and unlimited potential to paint a masterpiece!

Your life is just the same. Everyday you can awaken to see a blank canvas for your day, free to create an inspired life for yourself.

Imagine what you can create without past hurts, limitations, or fears. With a blank canvas before you, there are no marks or lines to follow. You have the opportunity to be and do anything. You have the opportunity to have a fresh, clean start. It can happen every day, even every moment, when you want it and when you believe it. Simply see all the wonderful possibilities before you and come to them with what inspires you.

You are the artist.

My Story

I'm in Love and, in this place of inspiration and opportunity, an idea came to me.

One day I heard a beautiful metaphor, one that empowers our life's choices if we start with the choice to see our lives as a blank canvas. Onto a blank canvas, we can paint our life and our love, exuberantly - abundantly - freely. The blank canvas calls us to truly let go of the past and proactively and with inspiration to create our future, in each and every moment.

So I made a gift to my new love, a small artist's canvas and table-top easel, as a reminder that we can make our relationship what we want, free from past hurts and fears. Hers sits at her bedside; mine sits on my fireplace mantle. Many a time I've caught a glimpse of it - in its simplicity reminding me to come back into the moment and focus on what I want to create.

I love the idea & want to share it's power with others.
